Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: Discussed elements of election/restriction requirement as it pertains to Markush terminology laid out in section 803.02 of the MPEP. Discussed the differences between Kimura and applicants invention specifically being that applicants invention is directed to a device for sheet metal deformation while Kimura is directed to the deformation of piping or tubing, applicants representative indicated that amended claim language will be submitted to clarify the above distinction. Also discussed differences and motivation to combine the teachings of Takahashi '766 and Kimura, examiner indicated that reasoning for the combination can be found in the Kimura reference and that the recent KSR decision further supports the rationale for making an obvious type rejection as simple substitution of one element for another in similar products would yield predictable results .
